My dear. Many thanks for your cord-I'm glad you have good news from Holland.
 I had a pretty dress crossing - but came over in the 'Paris' a very fine new English boat. The 2nd cabin was quite ^{English} ~~luxurious~~ - done up in chintz & really airy - it was too good for each other been pretty fresh with the heavy waves & high wind since I came. but ^{long} interval of light sunshine. My room has a roof view which is getting worse as the regions too root just above us and an oil curtain rises then down below. The sitting or living or window ledge I see the place - as pleasant as ever. I have been taking it easy since I came & glad of the quiet. doing or doing nothing as we like & sleep fairly - as the night have been stormy & wild. The Monday afternoon spent in a high garden (up a road) flower & steps, overlooking the sea. as an English head in the garden - petit bourgeois & other people sitting round the bay is down for me this & taking the chairs & tables & a wall-papered away down the steps to the lawn. It was very amusing but rather cold as the windy weather. A French Madame very superior - sitting alone at a window & it the house gave me various information.
 And yesterday - standing at a corner at the Potter side I was asked in to a little raftered room of a corner (18th cent.) house where they were making nets. 5 very odd & one muddled
 - 1 young woman & 2 poor old sea or sea sailors. where I spent the afternoon chatting with them - apparently very pleased to have a ~~visit~~ visitin' team wth so in whenever I like. ca re le dérange pas. It was very charming - shelves packed with books & lamps hanging from the rafters & everyone so simple & friendly - I shall look them up again tomorrow. The rest has been very lovely & stiller until - rather a nice change! I heard 2 lads are getting on. A Mrs. Wyerster R.D. Scott besides comes. I heard from R.D. Scott today - when I saw him for Cornwall. R.D. Scott says the "First Road" was so deeply realized. It made him feel the writer was mad! a ~~to~~ professional point of view!!

There are to be an sorts of service over at St Jacques on Friday & on Saturday - with gaiety at the Casino. I dare say I shall do a little of both. The English Church was too alluring & dreary - a gentleman can't even the lessons & prayers intelligently & surely even; we were 10 yes.
I dare wonder! The organ shamefully played by a lady. Madame ~~the~~ here is rather more business like than ever. I found his name put up the price which may account for his stay & change & Clemence told me a lot of English visitors are expected for Easter - who haven't yet arrived there is one dear English couple here. He looks very professional also regard me as dirt, happily as his appear to be a deadly pair - the rest are commercial gentlemen - I heard from the Normandis, a very polite note that he would do me & if but really are must be here
- the Square is a pure delight & when we have two many, indeed, it makes all the difference to be in the night place. And I should have have done like Gèle Vane & I've been here last year. We realize the place much more alone & think - it's all there is - & you don't feel it through another mind which mixes up things - I wonder if that - as this says, is a rather inhuman thing - ? anyhow we can't do the work of it - & he I feel even the sea for seeing things is distracting & if I do anything shall have to get away from it to some quiet place. But so far this is a more or less comfortable state which is very peaceful - The superior tea room is a great joy - but the promised the jugs & the down to the sea wet makers - & an looking forward to taking them on Saturday

Bouquet - Perhaps if I don't get to write I shall have a fit of the usual blues but hope I shall see something before I leave - when Mrs. and Mr. I haven't yet decided - I really do want a vet - I hope you will have a nice time in Scotland & give my remembrances & congratulations to your holers. I expect you will have more than cards after the time - Now Mr. Scott says domesticities have stopped his writing but as she's started a new book - the marvel is she ever does start them - Must now get the rest of my letters off before tea - & off for a walk - I haven't done much of it for
p. C. or M. ..
