

the Casino - I suppose you've seen that the Athenaeum has been swallowed by the Nation - over which cannibalistic tragedy I have dropped a tear. I hope the key of the typewriter has been lost in the post: & also that the Shah's toothache has quite subsided. It must be long now there - & I'm looking forward to seeing you very pale & round-faced & fit when you get back to the old darky cart & cabbage.

Much love
from T. H. M.

Feb: 24. 1871 9 Gordon Street
W.C. 1

Dear Alice You will be wondering what I have been doing - well I have been busy 'blee' & have tortured up from it a law business. dead & lively letters which is on a more than usual fuzzy head has managed to deal with.
I was so delighted to hear that I was hearing his pious lips with the forti-tude of the great - & much relieved too. Now I have given sent Anna to. It may be long ~~long~~ - & have the best students for good reports of the dear good boy.
I saw you. Always enjoying an unindulgent of the Carnival with a background of heavenly sea - we must take Grace as she is the thankful for her in every word. & for my part I have wanted her to come down at 2.30. w Pam's Prayers. But I do think it shameful for such a woman. & have pleasure to inform you that ^{the Government} ~~are~~ now paying all our chairs by per week to join at as at their way to the Cinema. We're wealthy & happy country - ones! The Bishop

sent me 6 copies of the B.D. very cheap in new blue coat of the Sphere has written for your portrait photo - which she liked & it is by reason I don't want a port with it that I'm not asking them to have 75 instead. S.C.C. turned up celebrity, very faintly. with a £6000 like George.
which he wants for his Museum - in a red black bag. He asked George & seemed much interested in a "villa in the S. of B." & evidently sees you,
much painted, with a major green parasol
+ being good about in

Reproductions from the Charlotte Mew Digital Collection are provided courtesy of the University at Buffalo Libraries.

Preferred Citation:

[Title], Digital Collections - University at Buffalo Libraries, accessed [date accessed], [URL].