

Black Student Union Presents:
Black women United

“What does means to be a black woman in 2006?”

September 18, 2006

Welcome all. No group of people, have had the unique historical, social and political struggles that black women endure. This year Black Women United will evaluate the matters that have troubled all women in order to see how these problems pertain more specifically to women of color. We believe that only by understanding the issues that affect all women can we fully comprehend our own. So today we will begin to explore the concerns that press us most, by taking a look at the future meeting topics.

-Trials

What do you think are the most vital problems that women of color face today?

What are the sever health issues for black women?

Diabetes, Heart Disease,

Are women of color adapting to the American image of beauty, if so how?

Trying to get lighter

What rights do we have as women? Will they be guaranteed in the future?

Is the role that black men play in our society beneficial to us?

What role does sexuality play in our self worth?

How do we feel about other women? Do we feel the need to compete with each other?

How have black women changed in history?

-Triumphs

What significant advances have black women made?

How are we as a group in the business world?

-Expectations

What are your expectations for black women in the future?

Will we improve or decline?

What do you expect from this BWU this year?

Facts:

To learn more:

Go to, www.bcw.org

<http://www.jbhe.com>