Students Defeat UB Breakfasts<sup>A3</sup> For Black Children

Students at the State University of Buffalo have defeated a proposal to allocate $28,000 to the Black Student Union's "Breakfast for Children" program by a vote of 1548 to 1003. The issue was put to a referendum Thursday and Friday.

The BSU breakfast program currently feeds 170 young black children in the Westminster Community House, 421 Monroe St.

Program head Charles Autrey, 19, a freshman at the University said "we'll have to look to the people of Buffalo, the community to help now. The university has proven that it wants nothing to do with it." Mr. Autrey, previously said that the breakfast treasury contained $3000 of the original $5200 allocated to the program by student association funds.

Mr. Autrey also said that because of the program's rapid expansion, food expenses are currently $750 a week.

The allocation proposal was endorsed editorially by the Spectrum, UB's student newspaper.
